Square packaging for necklace.

The packaging is made of PMMA, the square part has a hole in the centre and a round part to put the necklace. The circular lid has a little cylinder in the centre that works as pivot to close the pack. This kind of container can also be used as an exposé, since thanks to the transparency of the material it's possible to see the content. The name of the artist is silk-screen printed on the pack, but everything stopped at the prototype stage because the material is too expensive and too heavy.
