

Properties list:

end-user packaging
range of products
new product
sachet
pouch
folding carton
flow-pack
flacon
plastics
cardboard and paper
well-being contemporary glossy
photo to describe
identity by photo
identity by colour

The bottle Barilla is taking to the Oscars belongs to a range of packaging devised for a new brand of functional foods rich in essential active nutrients essential for key bodily functions: Alixir. The bottle's shape for example is inspired by "elixir" flacons used in the past and alludes to the benefits of the drink inside. The packaging designer's aim was to maximize shelf impact, conveying distinctiveness and value via an innovative graphical solution for food products. The containers also ensure the products are recognizable and encourage daily consumption of the same (as part of an easy to adopt food programme) due to use of structural packaging directly ascribable to single product categories.

Reference: ItaliaImballaggio, n° 3 - March 2008

Credits:

Country: Italy

Year: 2007

Agency: William Murrey Hamm

User: Barilla

Designer: Richard Williams

Award: Oscar

dell'Imballaggio - Sezione Speciale Comunicazione, 2008

Other images:

